Nearly 15 years ago, I was diagnosed with a degenerative vision condition called Cone Rod Dystrophy. Year after year, my vision would become worse and there was nothing that I could do about it. When I was told that I had become legally blind, I realized that if I did nothing I would become blind within a few more years. With no other options, I began to look into alternatives that could help. I researched acupuncture and found some promising information. In some cases, people regain some of their lost vision, and in most cases, vision can be stabilized. I immediately started acupuncture treatments with Hui Wei (nearly 2 years ago) and my vision seems to have stabilized. Approximately 1 year ago, I missed 6 sessions in a row and realized that my vision seemed to be getting worse again. I contacted Dr. Wei and she treated me twice per week for a few weeks until my vision was back to where it had previously been. As scary as it was to see my vision get worse, it confirmed the importance of the acupuncture to keep my vision stabilized. Dr. Wei has continued to monitor my vision and with any changes that occur, she alters the treatments accordingly. I could not be happier with my decision to think outside of the box and try acupuncture. Dr. Wei and the acupuncture treatments have most definitely helped me!
